Never before have kids been less active than today, and we would like to change that. Children should stay active, investigate, and explore the world, which is why we are launching the world's first activity platform combining physical activity with entertainment for kids.

Xplora's history and reputation as being one of the safest and most trusted companies to produce wearables designed for children, have allowed the company to be pioneers in this space.

Announcing partnerships with Sony PlayStation, Paramount Pictures' "Dora and the Lost City of Gold" movie and Fox Movies' "Spies in Disguise", Xplora is demonstrating that multiple renowned brands are already looking to innovative companies that can creatively and effectively deliver concepts that tackle the unbalanced screen time issue.

Our Xplora activity platform will encourage children to spend more time taking part in physical activities offline, in exchange for virtual rewards that can be redeemed online via a gaming platform.
